

Emmaus Epistle

Multiple Choice

I was reading during my devotional time and came across an interesting concept that I would like to share with my Emmaus Community. There was an opening quote by Frederick Speakman that "decisions determine destiny." The writer went on to say that the premise of a multiple-choice is simple - each question on the test is followed by a series of possible answers. The only thing that the test taker has to do is eliminate the wrong choices and select the right one. But actually taking the test is never that simple. In order to choose the right answer, you have to actually know it (or at least be able to make an educated guess). I remember when I finished graduate school my sense of relief that I had taken my last test. But I failed to realize something then that I have since learned.

Life is one big multiple-choice test! The answers that we select in this test determine what we become in life. I pray that in this season of Lent that we will all be more prayerful and more intentional in our study of Scripture. Our eternal destiny depends on it!

Ding's A Peal

Last month I was telling you about the film, The Perfect Stranger. Well terry and Kathleen gifted us, Another Perfect Stranger. Set ten years after the events of The Prefect Stranger, Another Perfect Stranger presents different thoughts and ideas to the ageless question, "What would you say to Jesus if you met Him?" A very thought provoking time spent in answering that last question.

Big for the month is the Beachside Cluster web site in moving to a new server and our own domain name. Until the middle of March, the older site at Truepath will remain active and direct you the new site at www.beachsideemmaus.com. Note that Beachside and Emmaus form the single word beachsideemmaus, so there is a double e where the two words join. Copy/Paste the following into your browser URL windows and you will be directed to the new site:

Editor's Comments

Thanks to Karen and all who attended the February Cluster meeting. While the meeting was small, all said how much they enjoyed Dave McAlister's devotional on the Wheat and Tares and for the time of sharing testimonies, concerns, and praises.

Thanks to the Judy Arrowsmith and Vissie and Frank Wood for the February Refreshments. March Refreshments will be provided by Marjorie Barebo, Becky Edge, Jane Pratt, and the Casey's
